No. 156

J. PARKER THOMAS,
Agent,
Front Street, Belleville. 117-

Wit and Humor.

Arithmetic of Consumption—Two thin shoes make one cold; two colds, one attack of bronchitis; two attacks of bronchitis, one cough.

There is no such adulation in what we eat, and drink that most articles of consumption have to be taken upon credit, and treated as articles of faith.

Pat said a little friend of mine, "What the use of giving our little pigs so much corn? They make little of themselves."

Was walked away.

Mamma: "Why, Willie, dear, what a dirty phantasm you have on." Willie: "What, no, it isn't any phantasm—I've turned it three times this morning."

Mamma, according to the reports received from every direction, is falling. People who have heads that soft should look to it, and not get hurt.

A gentleman who is ashamed of his luscious bald head explains the absence of his hair by saying that he was born poor and was compelled to scratch his way through life.

THE LATE MR. PEARSON.

London, Nov. 8.—The death of Mr. Geo. Pearson occurred on late on Thursday (half-past eleven o'clock) that the fact could not be publicly published until to-day. His death is universally regretted. Plans are being at half-past, buildings are draped in the city, and other evidence attests the public sorrow.

The "Daily News" of this morning, in its obituary article, says: "Pearson was not a man of impulsive, emotional benevolence, but rather of judicious, widely-appealed benevolence. His liberality was not posthumous. He gave from his own abundance. He did not surrender what death would leave him. His services, both to his native and adopted country, were fittingly and graciously recognized in royal honors and the thanks of congress. Merchants in passing his statue did not need to learn from the inscription that he was not dead to his country. His career may teach them how it may be wisely spent."

NEW BRIDGE OPENED BY THE QUEEN.

A LETTER RESPECTING DR. LIVINGSTONE.

Dr. Robert Morrison publishes an extract from the Rev. Mr. Kirk's letter to the "Daily News" in which he says: "I have no doubt that before this Dr. Livingstone has satisfied himself whether any of the South African rivers flow into Lake Albert Nyanza. If this determination is arrived at, he will have solved the problem of African geography."

SPECIAL NOTICES.

BOILS.

Like the volcano, Boils erupt to the foul and fiery contents of the deep interior. To remove the cause of such suffering, only surgery can vitalize the blood by supplying it with Life-Force.

THE PERUVIAN SYRUP.

(A protected solution of the Protosin of Iron) will do this efficiently, and give strength, vigor and new life to the whole system.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM REV. NICHOLAS S. SMITH, OF HOLYOKE, MASS.

"For years I was a sufferer from Boils, so that my life became unbearable. Through frequent and protracted recurrences nearly a carcase formed in the small of my back. During the progress of these Boils, the pain was every day two or three times, and the prostration and general debility of the system was great. Before I had recovered from this Boil, I was again attacked with a Boil higher up, and I was again troubled with a Boil in the side of my neck. It was at this time that I commenced taking the PERUVIAN SYRUP. I continued taking it until I had used five bottles; then I had had nothing of the kind. The next year I was again troubled with Boils. Other medicines gave me partial and temporary relief, but I was not cured. With a kind of inactive man, was directly to the Boil, and did not work with a thoroughworthy of the established character."

Father McMahon in New York.

THIS STATEMENT.

Father McMahon received a public reception in New York, upon his release from the Penitentiary, Mayor Hall in the Chair. He was introduced to the audience amid a scene of the greatest excitement, men cheering, and ladies waving their handkerchiefs. He advanced to the front of the stage and said:

I return you my sincere thanks for your kind invitation, and still kinder reception. I shall never forget it. I suppose you all know about my long imprisonment and my sufferings. In June, 1896, I left Madison, Indiana, to see after the affairs of my brother who had died in Canada. I found myself on the Canadian side surrounded by soldiers of the Irish army. They stopped me, asked who I was, where I was going to, and what was my business. I told them. The moment they found I was a priest, they explained who they were, what was their mission, and, saying they desired a chaplain, asked me to go with them. As Catholics, they said, "Yes!" ("Yes! (cheering) I went with them; was present at the battles of Limestone Ridge and Ridgeway, ministered to the dying soldiers of both sides, and, I trust, saved a few souls. What I was more noble than a soldier, what more necessary, what more brave and generous, and I would now ask what more just and right than to minister to him whose wound of or dying, to save his soul? Now, I have suffered for, and I thank God I have suffered enough to do so. My medical officers in this city and Philadelphia cannot allow me to speak much, and the secret Mr. Daly, will read you my statement. I have only to say that I did my duty as a priest on the battlefield and I did no more. (Cheers.)

Mr. Peter Daly then read the following statement:

Ladies and Gentlemen: When I received the kind invitation to meet you to night and discuss the justice of my arrest, trial, sentence of death, imprisonment, and tortures inflicted upon me by English officials in Canada, I hesitated whether I should accept or decline. Now, I would shrink from any sacrifice—even death, if necessary—to give my native and liberty, or preserve it in this, the land of my adoption. But, if freedom of speech, guaranteed and pledged to me here in the United States, makes me a fellow when ever I treat the soil over which that tyrannical emblem, the English flag, floats, that I should discuss carefully ere I exercise the freedom of speech as I have here, the acts of the English government, its cruelties, oppressions, and willful mistreatment, Canadian officials, no one will deny. I have weighed the matter well, and decided that it was my duty to come here to-night and lay before you the facts of my arrest, trial, sentence of death, imprisonment, and tortures inflicted upon me by English officials in Canada, as administered by English officials, not only upon Irishmen, but Americans as well, when the tranquility of English dominion is disturbed, either by their speeches or acts. Although the United States government has been and is tardy in behalf of her citizens, I firmly believe that it is rapidly approaching when England will be compelled, not only to recognize and respect the rights of American citizens but the rights of all people to government. This believing, I have decided to come freely and fearlessly my right as an American citizen upon American soil, to demand English officials, to treatment of American citizens, and the injustices of their imprisonment. In the early part of June, 1898, with the permission of Bishop Luers, I left out from Madison, Indiana, to visit Montreal, Canada, to arrange the affairs of my then deceased brother, Peter McMahon. When I reached Port Erie, I was met by several officers of the Irish army, accompanied by General John O'Neill. They questioned me as to who I was, where I was from, and where I was going. I briefly answered their questions. They learned that I was a clergyman who informed me who they were and the mission they were on, and asked me if I would go with them, as they desired the services of a chaplain. I hesitated, as my mission and an Irishman, of course, would not go, and went with them. At the battle of Limestone Ridge the wounded and killed on both sides were numbered and twenty-three of the Irish soldiers and many of the English forces. As a clergyman and man of peace, I attended the wounded and dying of both armies. As an Irishman and an enemy of the English tyranny, I attended first the wounded and dying of the Irish army, who were fighting for liberty and Erin. The English troops were routed and driven back twenty-four miles from where the first battle took place. Here they halted; but, learning that General O'Neill and his forces were following them up, and knowing that there is no rest for the wicked, they turned back to their heels again, leaving a portion of their wounded behind. My services were again required, not only for the Irish soldiers, wounded and dying, who were brought to the hospital, but also of the English troops, who were stricken down from exhaustion, caused by marching such long distances from the victorious and pursuing Irish army. While in the company of and caring for the wounded and dead of both armies, I was arrested by six of Mr. McMahon's soldiers, who believed in, and practiced the day before the morning, "He who fights and runs away, he wins again some other day." When arrested, I was taken to the new Toronto Jail, stripped, and forced into an ice-cold water bath; there I was kept one hour, which resulted in sending me to the hospital, with chills and fever, where I remained nearly four months. From there I was taken to the old Toronto Jail, and there kept until I was brought to trial. I was tried before Justice John Wilson. Now hear with me for a moment, and you will learn what John Wilson's justice was. I was arraigned on three charges: First—I was an American citizen. Second—I must have been in Canada with hostile intent. Third—that I was in company with evil disposed persons in Canada. The jurors summoned to try me were English and Scotchmen. The witness was introduced by the prosecution were on in number but equal to a hundred in swearing, who testified that they heard me utter a blasphemous remark, and my drawl noted that I was a clergyman; that they saw me sitting at a table with the wounded and dying of both armies, and that they saw me kneeling at the bedside of the wounded and dying. Here on prosecution, but not the prosecution, close it. This, as I have stated it, was the case of the Canadian English Government against me. My counsel, Mr. McMahon, would have rested my case with the evidence introduced by the prosecution, being satisfied that, before an honest jury, with such evidence, I would be acquitted. But knowing that the jurors were English and Scotch subjects—which he never proved to be, English despotism is determined to show beyond question or cavil, that I was not amenable, as a clergyman, to any act yet introduced, English or Canadian law. The testimony first introduced in my behalf was a letter from Bishop Luers, the Bishop of the diocese where I was located as parish priest, showing that he had given me permission to minister on matters pertaining to the death of my brother. I was then called by the prosecution, who stated that I was on my way there, was also laid before the court, but was not permitted to be read. Evidence was introduced on my behalf, also proven by the witnesses for the prosecution, that when I was arrested—armed with what every Catholic priest is armed with when visiting the sick or attending the dying—my evidence in my character and calling, my evidence was closed, and the case given to the jury—not packed; for, as Webster describes them, it is unnecessary to pack English or Scotch slaves to court, as American citizens, more especially if they happen to be of that land that never lets, nor ever will, let England rest until she has freed Ireland. Did you anticipate the fact that I was not to be called? You know it before you read this. I was called, and I knew it certainly was announced. I was guilty on the 12th of November, 1896, and sentenced to be hung on the 13th of December, 1896, just five weeks from the date of my conviction. In the midst of my state of mind, I was referred to my treatment while in prison previous to my trial, and, with your kind permission, I will resume and conclude the statement of the treatment I experienced during my imprisonment and up to the moment of my release. After conviction and sentence of death, I was hurried back to prison. Great care was taken to keep me secure, as there were rumors of an attempt to escape. This precaution was unnecessary, as the English government, when they used the mode of killing me from hanging on a slow death by torture and starvation in Canadian dungeons for life. They began the starving process immediately after my death sentence was changed from the gallows to death in the dungeon. For breakfast the prison official brought a stipulated quantity of food, for it was precious, called "bread" and a piece of baked beans, called "tea." This stuff it was impossible to use; starvation was preferable. I refused and would not use it. Dinner, consisted of a cup of soup which I ate, was likewise refused, being in company with one who was unable, not because it was fit for a human being but because it was not to be welcomed that dinner, which was an Englishman and a piece of baked beans, called "tea." The supper was brought and left with me in my dungeon over night. This was a great source of annoyance, as I was not allowed to sleep, as my hunger was inflamed with food. The soup was refused and left in my cell was the signal for the guard to come and take and enter them into

GOVERNOR McDONNELL OBLIGED TO RETURN TO THE STATES

ORGANIZATION OF A PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT

From the Daily Telegraph.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 13

Letters from reliable parties at Pembina, published in the St. Paul Press, confirm the rumor of the expulsion of Governor McDougall and party from the Red River Territory.

The Governor had advanced two miles beyond the frontier and stopped at the Hudson Bay Company's post, sending Mr. Provencher forward to confer with the Indians, who numbered about 600.

Mr. Provencher was made prisoner, Mr. McDougall was surrounded in the fort, owing to the numbers of the attacking party no defence could be made. On the 3rd Nov. the governor was escorted across the line, and he now occupies near Pembina, in Dakota territory.

The insurgents, who consisted of French and half breeds, did not offer any violence. A Provisional Government has been organized, and the determination of the insurgents to resist Canadian domination is loudly expressed. Their proceedings are supposed to have been instigated by American emissaries, with the view of bringing about annexation.

Governor McDougall is said to have applied to the Ottawa Government for troops. His family intend returning to Canada.

The Hudson Bay Company's officers and the Scotch and other British settlers will support the Governor, but it is uncertain whether they will organize a military force in his support.

Two insurgents are only partially armed and equipped.

LATER.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 13.—Recent advices from Red River Territory state that the insurgents remain camped about four miles beyond the frontier. They are receiving considerable accessions to their numbers. A French half breed, named Pierre Larocque, is the leader of the party. The British settlers are reported to be organizing for a movement on the insurgents, and if the latter do not disperse serious consequences are apprehended. The American residents of the territory, who desire annexation, are supposed to have stirred up the half breeds to insurrection, desiring to retain the trade with the territory, and prevent its passing into Canadian hands. It is hardly probable that Gov. McDougall will be able to enter the territory until spring.

Business Notices.

Not many weeks ago a rich and childless landowner breathed his last, leaving a large estate of real estate, to be divided equally between his two sons, and his wife. The day for reading the will at last came; the room was crowded with anxious expectants; the will was read, and the inheritance was divided. ## SUEZ CANAL.

Suez, Nov. 31, via Alexandria.—The Insurgents fleet consisting of 41 steamers has arrived here. None were obliged to employ pilots; the only difficulty they had was owing to their numbers. The water was so shallow that the point and female is fully 90 feet deep at the low water mark, and in several parts it is not less than 25 feet in depth. The water is so shallow that the boats can be easily dragged. Sixteen drags of 15 feet can navigate the canal from Port Said to Suez, with the boats as much as 100 tons. The complete success of the great work is beyond all expectation. The arrangement for transporting and taking care of the visitors here are generally excellent. All the rolling stock on the Alexandria and Suez railroad has been brought into regulation, to transport the immense crowds of visitors. The mail to and from India has been much delayed in consequence. The canal is now clear of shipping, the entire fleet having anchored in the harbor of Suez.

To-morrow the states of Wagon, the Englishman who first proposed the building of the canal will be erected here, and on Tuesday the boat will start on its return to Port Said; there a statue of Ferdinand De Lesseps, the builder, and resident Director of the Canal will be raised.

Lady Byron's Farewell to her Husband

The following verses, written by Lady Byron in reply to the "Farewell" poem, are copied from an old manuscript, and will read with a heart interest at this time.

Fare thee, farewell, farewell, farewell!
Fare thee, farewell, farewell, farewell!
Fare thee, farewell, farewell, farewell!
Fare thee, farewell, farewell, farewell!

"Unforgetting" thou hast called me
Didst thou ever say "forget me?"
For the words which were uttered then
Fare thee, farewell, farewell, farewell!

Short the span which time hath given
To complete the "Farewell" given
By unaltered passion driven,
Down thy heart was taught to stray

Lead for me that feeling tender,
Which so well thy verse on show?
For my eyes which didst thou wonder?
My eyes which didst thou wonder?

Wrest to dream of joy abiding,
Or my heart by leaden ball;
Is thy love and love conding,
Gleam I never can know again.

When thy heart by a "glazed" eye
First looked at me, I saw thee
Wouldst thou have been closed forever,
N'er to weep thy crime again.

But, by heaven's recording spirit,
May that which was written be,
Life, though now a leaden ball,
For the babe I've borne to thee.

In whose lovely features, let me
All my weakness be forgiven,
What the struggling heart permit me,
At my father's feet I kneel.

His words I never leave me,
Whom I have loved so true;
Who the different feelings have,
Still to love me I desire.

With regret and sorrow, then,
When our child's first accents low,
I shall teach him to say "father,"
But his eyes shall never know.

Wishes to move and to move,
Wishes to move and to move,
In another's arms, to move,
Will then be, no tears will shed.

For the world's appetite I sought not,
What I have spent my life on;
Of the price or value I thought not,
What I have spent my life on.

He is whom my soul delighted,
From his heart my soul drew;
With contempt my heart drew,
And preferred another's love.

Then art proud; and mark me, Byron,
I've a soul proud as your own;
Soft to love, but hard to love,
I've a soul proud as your own.

But farewell! I'll not uphold thee;
N'er, never, with him I'll be;
Fetched through by crime have made me,
I'll then cease, be happy still.

FROM "ORIGINATOR"

A Song of Triumph.

Send the last pass from Montreal to water,
Sir Francis has triumphed, North Bedford's
the slave!
Fearing, after the word of a Murry's broken,
His speech, address, all ended in death:
How vain was his boasting, Sir John had but speak.
And Murry and half his country he bought!
Send the last pass from Montreal to water,
Sir Francis has triumphed, North Bedford's
the slave!

Wait for the conqueror, from now a dirge,
His word is an arrow, his bow is a scourge;
He was it is said to repeat the old story
Of the times when, alas! he was first in the land.
Let the former now call this his pillar of glory,
The only word left upon which he can stand.
Send the last pass from Montreal to water,
Sir Francis has triumphed, North Bedford's
the slave!

Gospel for Window-Gardeners.

A BUNDLE OF INSTRUCTIONS FOR THE SCARDS.

PLANTS IN WINDOWS should now be examined, and those whose roots have filled the pot must be shifted into pots two sizes larger. After knocking out the old drainage from among the roots, also much of the surface soil as will break away without injuring the roots. Carefully drain the new pot with at least one inch of broken pot or bricks, and fill in the soil so that the collar or top of the ball will rest half an inch below the surface of the pot. Pack the fresh soil moderately firm round the ball, leaving half an inch for holding water. Finish off by giving a good soaking of water or until it runs out at the drainage hole, and set the plants in their places again.

PLANTS IN WINDOWS which do not require a shift or whose pots are large enough should have an inch of the old soil scraped off the surface, taking care not to injure the roots, and replaced with fresh mould—this is what gardeners term "top-dressing," and is a very beneficial.

PLANTS IN WINDOWS must have suitable soil; this is a fertile cause of failure with many persons, who will persist in using the same soil over and over again, or procuring it from a town garden; such soil being sour and poisonous to plants in pots. Soda water thick from the surface of a sandy pasture or hedge-row two-thirds, and manure rotted to mould one third, would be an admirable soil for most window plants—as, Pelargoniums (geraniums), Geraniums, Fuchsias, Begonias, and other plants.

PLANTS IN WINDOWS that show a tendency to become tall and lanky, must be cut down immediately, to keep them in proper shape and prevent the plants from wanting their strength in supporting unnecessary lateral branches, which would never yield a flower. This treatment is absolutely indispensable to the rose and Fuchsia. Anemones, as a rule, exceedingly chary in using the knife; but it is a mistake to paralyze, for the latest buds will start almost anywhere after the pruning, which if properly done, would do away with the clumsy supports too often seen in windows.

PLANTS IN WINDOWS must never be allowed to become infested with Aphids, or blight; the instant one or two are discovered, brush them off and destroy them at once. Prevent them from breeding now, for they will multiply to thousands in a few weeks.

PLANTS IN WINDOWS must never be watered unless the soil is dry, and then give them enough to saturate the whole ball, or until it runs freely from the drainage hole. Watering plants by dribblets of a gill or so at a time, is a species of torture, and plants in windows must never be allowed to stand in saucers of water, save and except Aspidistra (Calla), or Lily of the Nile, faintly mentioned, but it is a mistake to grow in water verbena; this plant is found in marshes and swamps at the Cape of Good Hope.

PLANTS IN WINDOWS and elsewhere, should be grown in clean, porous, well-drained pots. Every garden has a few glass delft and hard-baked pots which will last a season or later—particularly in unskilled hands—for unless the plants are vigorous or murder-proof the death of the plants is quick and final.

PLANTS IN WINDOWS should be frequently sprinkled and washed with water, this helps to keep a moist atmosphere, which they greatly love. A thermometer is of infinite importance to determine the proper temperature, which should never exceed 50 degrees.

VERBENA in dishes which disfigure as well as disfigure the plants, can be instantly and easily removed by using Dr. J. C. Ayer's Hair Vigor, at least twice a week. It is a powerful solvent, and will remove the grease and dirt from the leaves, and will remove the grease and dirt from the leaves, and will remove the grease and dirt from the leaves.

For the cure of the skin, Dr. J. C. Ayer's Hair Vigor is the best. It is a powerful solvent, and will remove the grease and dirt from the leaves, and will remove the grease and dirt from the leaves, and will remove the grease and dirt from the leaves.
